Virginia State Government
Program Structure

Department of Planning and Budget
Updates Effective July 1, 2011
Issued June 13, 2011
INTRODUCTION

A. General
The program structure is a mechanism whereby the state's activities and services and corresponding expenditures can be conveniently and uniformly organized, clearly identified, and easily accounted for. In this structure, the services that the state provides and the activities in which the state is engaged are classified systematically as items in descending levels on the basis of programs and service areas, which were previously referred to as subprograms. Each item in each level relates directly to one of the seven functions of government. The major uses of the Program Structure are:

1. Analysis, Planning, and Budgeting. Information is collected on a program basis in order to analyze the activities of state government in terms of results or impacts, which are then compared to stated objectives and alternative ways to meet these objectives, and to plan and budget on the basis of the analysis.

2. Program Operations. Information is collected to determine how programs operate in terms of what they do and the manpower and equipment they use to do it.

3. Financial Control. Information is collected to determine where monies are being appropriated and expended on a program basis.

4. Organizational Structuring. Information is collected on a program basis to allow decision makers to refine the organizational basis of government by arranging and rearranging programs for the most effective structure of government.

B. Levels of Program Structure Classifications
The following are basic definitions of the program structure levels. All work that is performed in an agency is identified in this structure.

1. Function. The broadest aggregation of state government efforts stated as a general purpose; the sum of the seven functions encompasses everything state government does to secure the safety, health, and general well-being of its people, and to develop to the fullest extent possible their resources. There are seven functions:
   a. Education
   b. Administration of Justice
   c. Individual and Family Services
   d. Resource and Economic Development
   e. Transportation
   f. General Government
   g. Enterprise

2. Subfunction. The broadest subdivision of efforts within a function which describes an aggregation of programs.

3. Program. A distinct organization of resources directed toward a specific objective of either:
   a. Creating, improving or maintaining a condition affecting the public;
   b. Preserving, developing or conserving a public resource;
   c. Preventing, containing or eliminating a public problem; or
   d. Supporting or controlling other programs.
Each program should lend itself to at least partial quantification and should bring together all costs associated with its execution.
4. Service Area. The broadest subdivision, as nearly as practicable, of a program. Resources provided for service areas may be interchanged for maximum accomplishment of program objectives.

5. Element/Component. A component of a service area; its purpose is to provide a description of specific activities and facilities which contribute to the accomplishment of the service area. (This is an optional component available for individual agency use for internal management purposes and is not reflected in the program structure descriptions and codes.)

6. Coding. The program structure code consists of seven digits which identify the following components.

Function X “7” is General Government
Subfunction XXX “701” is Executive Management (Be careful, subfunctions are really a range of programs.)
Program XXX - “715” is Planning, Budgeting, and Evaluation Services
Service Area XXX-XX “71502” is Budget Development and Budget Execution Services Component / (Element in CARS only)
XXXXXXXX-XX “7150201” could be budget development, if desired by the agency.

Every undertaking of state government, whether at the level of program, service area, or element, has its unique code. The coding logic permits information to be extracted on any one of several levels. For example:

-If information on resources (dollars or people) is desired on the Resource and Economic Development function, the computer will sort on the number 5.
-If information is desired on the subfunction Consumer Affairs, then programs 55000 to 57900 are aggregated.
-If data on the program Regulation of Professions and Occupations is needed, then 56000 is totaled.
-If only service area information is necessary for Physician Regulation, then 56030 is used.
